This android app helps identify incoming caller IDs in case you don't have this number saved in your local phonebook. Truecaller has built a reputation as the most trusted caller identification app globally. If you run a business or if you get a lot of calls from different numbers then Truecaller is your go-to app. For a normal user, it acts as a protection from spam calls and warding off unwanted calls from unknown numbers. You can manage all incoming calls thanks to the application that supports mobile, landline, and prepaid phone numbers. You can see who called you before you answer calls on your phone. Also, prevent unwanted calls by using a spam number list. Truecaller only allows either Facebook, Yahoo!, or Gmail to access the app. If you don't have one you cannot connect to its database. When you use one of the social sites, your entire contacts including contact numbers, contact names, and email ids will be uploaded to a secure server. In case you log in to the app using your mobile phone then your entire address book will be sent to the app servers. These are organized into records and each number will be assigned a caller ID. When someone searches the number using Truecaller number search, the caller ID associated with that number will be displayed. If you want those unknown numbers then you have to part with your phone book contacts. This app is crowd-sourced from the millions of users who have downloaded the app on their smartphones. As part of the end-user agreement, the app asks the user to allow access to the user's address book. Data is then uploaded by the app to the company's servers. The algorithm that this app uses is that when you make a profile it will cache all your contacts. Similarly, when other users make an account they will use your cached contacts and show other users saved contacts. In the same way, it shows other contacts to you.
